

Course Assistant – DIS Copenhagen

The Science & Health Department at DIS is looking for a Course Assistant for the course Human Health and Disease: A Clinical Approach.

This course is taken by third year undergraduate American University students who would like to attend medical school once receiving their bachelors. In the course they learn about the most important human diseases, their diagnosis and treatment, and the clinical working methods of physicians. One of the main goals of the program is for students to gain a perspective of the role of the physician.

The class is taught by two doctors, who are both specialists from Copenhagen area hospitals. The course takes place at DIS Copenhagen (with some sessions taking place at hospitals in the greater Copenhagen area). Classes occur twice a week, either every Monday and Thursday or Tuesday and Friday from 15.30-17.30.

Read more about the Human Health and Disease: A Clinical Approach course here.

Tasks

- Grade all student assignments
- Attend all of the classes throughout the semester, serving as the connecting link from one class to the next and between teaching doctors
- Hold the primary contact with the students and answer their questions about class, assignments, travel, etc.
- Travel as an academic leader for the study tours that take place with this course. One tour is a short study tour to Western Denmark and the other is a long study tour to two European cities.

Professional competencies and skills

- Completed at least 6th semester of medical school
- Fluency in written and oral English (working language) is a must
- Cross-cultural/international educational, work or volunteer experience is a plus, but not required

Start date

January 1, 2026

Working at DIS

Working at DIS requires creativity and flexibility. We are looking for someone who is passionate about learning and teaching as well as enjoys meeting new people and making new connections. At DIS, you will be part of a dynamic team that values collaboration, cultural diversity, creativity, and flexibility. As one of the leading study abroad organizations, we are committed to developing a learning experience untethered from the ordinary.

Additionally, you can enjoy perks like:

- Complimentary barista coffee from our very own DIS coffee shop
- A delicious lunch program
- Massages at work
- Collaborative co-working spaces and environment
- Staff discounts
- Social outings
- Extensive professional development opportunities

Application process

If you are interested in applying, submit a resume and application letter in English. Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis. For further information, please contact Philippa Carey at pc@dis.dk.